HIGH POINT FARMERS MARKET TO FEATURE ROTARY CENTENNIAL PROCLAMATION

High Point, N.C. (Nov. 2, 2020) - The High Point Farmers Market concluded its regular 2020 Market season on Oct. 31, but will host three small pop-up food markets at the High Point Public Library beginning Nov. 7, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

A special feature of this coming Saturday's Market will be a reading of a proclamation at 10 a.m. by High Point Mayor Jay Wagner, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Rotary Club of High Point. To mark this milestone, the Rotary Club voted to fund the creation of a sensory garden to be located at the High Point Public Library near the intersection of North Main Street and Sunset Drive.

There will be conceptual drawings of a proposed design available for viewing at the Farmers Market table. The drawings will be on display in the library's lobby the following week.

On Nov. 7 and 21 and Dec. 19, only plants, produce, baked goods, homemade pet treats, fish, chicken, beef and pork will be available. However, on Dec. 5, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. there will be a special holiday time at the market with food, plants and many craft vendors. There will also be a food truck and music by Tracy Thornton and his steel drums.

To protect our community and help prevent the spread of the coronavirus, customers are asked to wear a face covering and observe social distancing. Free face masks are available at the Farmers Market table. Currently, the High Point Public Library building is not open to the public on Saturdays.

The High Point Farmers Market is operated under the direction of the High Point Public Library, a department of the City of High Point. The mission of the High Point Farmers Market is to promote a healthy lifestyle and a sense of community in a family-friendly gathering place.

The City of High Point aims to serve as the catalyst for bringing together the community's human, economic and civic resources for the purpose of creating the single most livable, safe and prosperous community in America. For more information on the City, visit www.highpointnc.gov.
